Growing up with a pet boosts folks' self-esteem!

Men who grew up with dogs have a stronger sense of self-worth and better social skills than those who didn't have canine companionship — and the effect is even stronger on women who had dogs, a university study shows.

As for cat owners, both men and women who grew up with them have a stronger belief in their own worth, and are more responsible. Again, the benefits are considerably greater for women.

The eye-opening study was conducted by Professor Michael Levine among 160 students at Bloomsburg University in Pennsylvania.

Here's why men beat their wives!

Canadian and American studies have recently come up with a typical profile of men who abuse their wives or girlfriends — and the picture isn't pretty.

Some common characteristics of abusers are:

- They blame the victim for their violent actions.
- They are very jealous.
- They have low self-esteem.

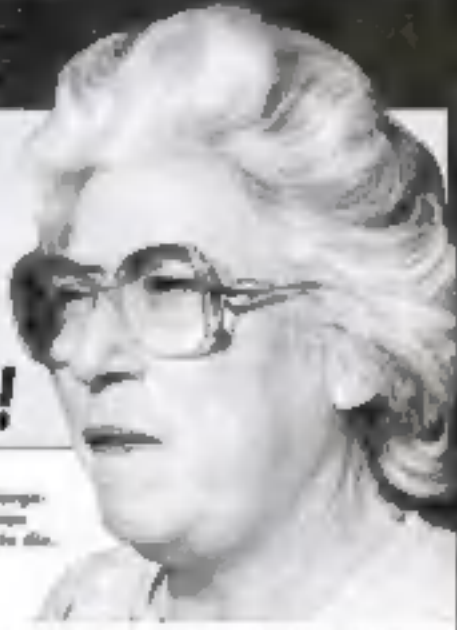
Eerie aftermath of a couple's tragic car wreck

LOVING husband Harry Heineman.

SPENDS 3 MINUTES IN HEAVEN — WITH HER DEAD HUSBAND!

Now she wants to go BACK . . . and be with her beloved forever!



WIDOW Margaret Heineman can't wait to die.

By BEATRICE DEXTER Weekly World News

Margaret Heineman is living for the day she dies and joins her late husband Harry in Heaven — for the second time!

The 73-year-old widow was with her beloved mate when both were involved in a horrible car wreck. The elderly pair were both brought to the hospital without a pulse, but doctors revived Margaret.

To this day, the former school teacher can clearly remember the moment of her death and her hand in hand trip to Heaven with Harry.

"We were so happy there together, but it only lasted for a few minutes," the Bern, Switzerland, woman said in an article for her church paper.

"Then the next thing I remember is waking up in the emergency room racked by pain.

"Now I have to live my last days alone without Harry. I'm just lost without him."

According to the gray-haired grandmother of five, her astonishing, near-death experience took place July 25, 1980, after the elderly couple were grievously injured in a head-on collision outside of Bern.

Harry died instantly of a broken neck and head injuries. His wife died, too, just as an ambulance rushed her into the emergency room.

"The doctors told me I was brought in without a pulse," the frail old lady said. "They said I had some bad head injuries and bleeding. They said it took them about three minutes to get my pulse back and stop the hemorrhaging.

"I don't remember any of that. But what I do remember is like a beautiful vision. I was lying on the stretcher and I saw Harry come to me. The next thing I knew I was floating above my body, holding hands with my husband.

"The two of us walked toward a brilliant, white light. Then I felt a sense of peace and feelings developed in. We came to a lovely place where our dead son Anders waited for us. We were just so happy to be all together."

But although she wanted to stay with her husband, Margaret was wrenched back to life seconds later, waking on a gurney as she was being wheeled into an operating room.

She remembers her return to life as a shock and a disappointment, but the brave grandmom says she believes it was God's will.

"That's the only thing that's keeping me going without Harry," the woman told a reporter for the Lutheran Church Bulletin in her hometown.

"I pray that I can serve Him in the way He wants and that He will let me return to Heaven soon to be with Harry."

THE POTTY'S OVER!

CURIOUS tourists arrive by the busload to gawk at Elijah when he sat on the throne.

World's first toilet-trained elephant dead at 32!

Elijah the potty-trained elephant is dead.

The amazing pachyderm entertained thousands of tourists in the jungles of India for nearly 15 years when he would squat on a toilet bowl to do his business, then flush away the evidence.

But the gigantic animal was found dead May 31 just a few feet away from the toilet he loved so much. The death was discovered the day after a terrible storm, causing observers to believe Eli was probably struck by lightning.

"This is a tragedy that will touch the hearts of the thousands of people who were entertained by this beautiful creature," said Terry Blanchard, a caretaker who lived with Elijah and 300 other elephants on a game preserve in Southeast India.

"But for me, the grief from his death is nearly unbearable," Blanchard said. "I knew this elephant as well as I knew my dearest friend. I will miss him greatly."

For years the well-mannered pachyderm was the star attraction at the preserve, delighting visitors who flocked to see him on the pot.

"When we started this preserve many years ago very few people came to see the animals," said Blanchard. "Then one of our trainers decided he would teach some of the elephants to use the toilet.

"It was the craziest idea I had ever heard, but I decided to let him try," he said. "We were on the verge of shutting the place down."

Elijah was the only elephant to master the toilet, but Blanchard said, "So many people paid to see him do his thing on the pot that it became the most important thing in the world for him to do.

"The word spread quickly about the elephant who could use the toilet," Blanchard said. "So many people paid to see him that we were able to keep the preserve open."

Blanchard said he doesn't know what caused Elijah's death, but he suspects the elephant was struck by lightning during the storm.

"Elijah was a very sensitive animal," he said. "He was terrified of storms and would run for cover at the first sign of lightning."

Blanchard admitted attempts to train another elephant to use the toilet have had very dismal results.

"Elijah was one of a kind," he said. "I don't think we'll ever see another elephant like Elijah."

Astrology helping doctors treat patients, says new report

By JUNE SAWYER
Weekly World News

Doctors across America are looking to the stars — using astrology to help treat heart disease, ulcers, colitis, asthma, depression, allergies, alcoholism and drug abuse, new figures show.

Internists, family physicians and psychiatrists are using the ancient science to help understand their patients, diagnose diseases and plan treatment.

"The primary use of astrology is in the undiagnosed medical situation where we can obtain some insight into what possibly might be wrong," said radiologist Dr. Donald Wharton.

Dr. Wharton — who says he has used astrology to aid in diagnosing and treating asthma, ulcerative colitis, ulcers, angina and allergies — estimates that over 500 doctors, psychiatrists and psychologists are using astrology today.

"It can help the doctor see underlying problems — like marital or financial stress," he said.

Psychiatrist Dr. Gordon R. Loomis, an alcoholism expert, said, "Astrology gives you information about the energy of the individual, some of the directions his life is going in and some of his problems.

It's another way of gaining information about a patient's life issues — anger, self-worth, dealings with others, tendencies to depend excessively on others or to avoid feelings."

Dr. Eugene Schelsmann is another noted expert who has used astrology in treating hundreds of cases of alcoholism and drug abuse.

"Astrology can very definitely help the physician in coming to a psychological understanding of the patient," he said. "It can help motivate the patient in treatment. It gives him a mirror to understand his personality problems and virtues. Finally, it can give reassurance. You can see in the chart when bad cycles will end. It can offer hope to otherwise hopeless people."

For the past 15 years, psychiatrist Dr. Edward Whitmont has been using astrology on his patients.

"I've found an astounding and impressive — even scary — correlation between the chart and the patient's history and development," he declared.

Religious task force finds door to Hell

By MIKE FOSTER / Weekly World News

Top religious experts have now confirmed that a deep tunnel found recently near Starkweather, N. D., is almost certainly a forgotten "back door" to Hell.

And in an astonishingly bold move, they are sending in a crack team of "Devil hunters" on a secret mission to kill Satan!

"If this sneak attack is successful, we can destroy evil at its very source," declared Father James Bolteau, one of the distinguished experts.

. . . and they're sending an elite team of 'Devil hunters' in to kill Satan!

THE "BACK DOOR" TO HELL was discovered in North Dakota.

The mind-bending drama began to unfold in early spring when a farmer clearing a long-abandoned field for planting uprooted a tree stump — and uncovered a stinking pit brimming with bones.

When state officials began to excavate the site, they found signs that it was no ordinary hole.

"About 300 feet into the tunnel is a spiral staircase which appears to wind down infinitely," revealed Fr. Bolteau, a Budapest-based professor of biblical archaeology.

RELIGIOUS EXPERT Father Bolteau

"What's more, the tunnel walls do not reflect the architecture of any known culture on Earth."

Local scientists ventured 300 feet down the stairway and found the temperature and magnetic readings were way out of whack. "They realized they'd crossed into another dimension," said the priest. Worried officials clamped a lid of secrecy on the find and called in an interdenominational panel of religious experts, including Fr. Bolteau.

"There have been numerous diagrams of Hell mapped out by theologians, mostly in the Middle Ages," he noted. "Several include such a stairway leading to an 'emergency exit.'

"From its condition we concluded the exit had not been used for centuries and had been forgotten by Hell's inhabitants.

"That's where our group decided this was a golden opportunity to strike at the very heart of Satan's evil empire."

The 12-man strike force — handpicked by the panel with the unofficial approval of the governor — includes Vatican exorcists, cave explorers, ex-Delta Force commandos and explosives experts.

"Now that we know Hell physically exists, it's reasonable to believe Satan is a flesh and blood being who can be destroyed with conventional weapons," said Fr. Bolteau.

The strike force plans to enter the hellhole early next month.

They made "joy come into my" home.

Bighearted baboon saves starving kitten — by sharing his food!

BEST BUDDIES: Baboon and kitten tenderly nuzzle one another.

By ANN VICTORIA, Weekly World News

HATTIESBURG, Miss. — A lonely baboon went against all his natural instincts and shared his food with a starving kitten.

And now the two are inseparable buddies!

The touching story began when city worker Jim Caldrones heard that Baboo, a 3-year-old African baboon at a Columbia zoo, was going to be destroyed. The animal was weak and sickly and the other baboons kept picking on him, making his life miserable. Zoo officials felt putting him to sleep was the kindest thing to do.

CITY WORKER Jim Caldrones.

Kindhearted Caldrones asked them to let him take Baboo in and keep him in his backyard. They reluctantly agreed.

"He wasn't doing well," said Caldrones. "We loved him and fed him but he was dying of loneliness — until Mickey came along."

Mickey was an abandoned stray kitten who was starving to death. One day he was so overcome by hunger that he wandered into Caldrones' yard and literally begged Baboo for food — and got it.

Baboo gave the pathetic little scrap chicken from his feed dish. From that moment on the two have been thick as thieves. They play together, eat together, sleep together.

"You must understand that baboons and felines are natural enemies," says Caldrones. "So it goes against all odds that they should have such a tender relationship. But they both seem to have found what they needed in life. They're happy as larks."

White collar workers are more prone to allergies!

Forty to 49 percent of white-collar workers suffer from allergies, while only 25 percent of blue-collar workers do, according to a recent survey reported in Allergy Relief newsletter. More women than men have allergies — 42 percent of women suffer from them versus 32 percent of men.

Nothing attracts more good luck than the lady bug. And now, for the first time ever, you can get one... perfectly preserved... in a unique pin-of-gold.

While on a trip to far-away lands, I met some villagers who receive everything they need in life through "good luck." They attract this incredible good fortune by placing a lady bug on their collar.

All around them are poor folks. But these people enjoy lives as far kings and queens ... with gold, jewels, good health and most important... "power."

Today, It's Your Turn

I became fascinated with the lady bug story - and set out to make them available to people just like you... people who can use a little good luck in their life.

After months of searching, I discovered a secret garden... filled with thousands of beautiful, red lady bugs. At harvest time, they are hand picked ... brought to a special location... and prepared for production.

Only the brightest colored are chosen. These always seem to attract the most luck.

Then ... each one is set in a stunning, pin-of-gold... perfectly preserved... ready to be worn on your collar.

Thousands of people around the world already have one (or more). They wear them to attract money, success, opportunity and good health.

"Lady bug carries on her wings, love, luck and all good things."

Others wear it to attract love and romance. While still others have attained a life of luxury and job advancement. Huge pay raises, improved business and better health.

One girl wore the pin just because it was so different. "Happiness" followed her wherever she went.

Gift Of Nature

Those who wear a lady bug wonder why it attracts so many good things. Personally, I believe it's because it's a gift of nature. And when you keep it close to you ... good luck follows.

But is it worth the $19.95 I'm going to ask you to send me?

Look at it this way: What if it brought you just one stroke of good luck? What, would it be worth to you? What if it brought you good fortune many times over?

Don't Miss Out

A panel of the foremost Bible experts answers the question all mankind is pondering

WASHINGTON — A growing number of Bible experts believe that the world will end on Dec. 31, 1996, and on that day, they say, God will judge the quick and the dead, sending the good to Heaven — and the wicked to Hell!

"Our intention isn't to alarm anyone — we merely wish to point out that time is running short for mankind and the world we have inhabited for the past 100,000 years," said Dr. Mark Farina, chairman of a distinguished panel of five Bible experts who considered "the problem" of the End Times and issued a statement during a Bible conference here.

"Not everybody is going to agree with us, of course, but a rather remarkable body of evidence points to 1996 as the year the world will end.

"In a nutshell, we have strong reason to believe that God will call a halt to His 'human experiment' on December 31 of that year.

"The evidence really is quite startling," he added.

"But you don't have to take my word for it. The signs are there for anyone to see."

Dr. Farina worked closely with Bible experts Dr. Donald Myers, Dr. Sarah Boyet, Dr. Diana Stant and the Rev. John Trulor to establish a date for the end of the world and Judgment Day.

In January 1994, the experts set out to determine if — as so many people already believe — we are actually living in the End Times. They also wanted to determine the exact moment God might bring an end to the world and judge the good and the bad.

"We began an exhaustive study of the Old and New Testaments, the so-called 'Lost Books' of the Bible as well as portions of the Dead Sea Scrolls," explained Dr. Farina.

"We also considered secular sources, such as the works of psychics like Nostradamus and Edgar Cayce, though we certainly didn't give them the weight that we assigned to Judaic and Christian concluded that the world will end long before the new millennium starts in the year 2000. We also concluded that God will pass judgment on everyone who has ever lived on the day the world ends, which, in our opinion, will be Dec. 31, 1996."

Dr. Farina noted that anyone with a Bible and the inclination to study it can check the panel's findings.

examining Bible prophecy in the books of Daniel, Zechariah, Revelation and Thessalonians, you will find all the information you need to establish a date yourself.

"Of all the religious material we studied, the most specific entries were contained in the Dead Sea Scrolls," he continued. "Time after time the date 1996 comes up in discussions of the End Times.

mentioned in the same passages, indicating a speedy judgement from God after the world ends.

"By assigning a date, we feel that we are giving people a golden opportunity to get right with God and save their souls for all eternity.

"Even if we are wrong, we feel that we are doing God's work. He is a loving God, and through His love and Man sentenced to jail for 'oinking' at his ex-wife!

EX-WIFE Rachel Nickle, above, finally complained to cops about being harassed by Robert Barzyk Sr., left.

HARRISBURG, Pa. — Jokester Robert Barzyk Sr. tried to get his ex-wife's goat by playing tape of Old MacDonald Farm every time she walked by his house — replaying the "oink oink" part over and over again.

By JACK ALEXANDER
Weekly World News

Hubby had been making pig noises at her — for nine years!

Rachel Nickle eventually complained to cops and her spiteful former hubby was arrested, convicted of harassment and sentenced to 30 days in jail for putting his ex-wife through the annoying ordeal for six torturous months.

"No one should have to tol[erate] that type [illegible] that period of time," said Deputy District Attorney Diana Woodside.

Testimony at Barzyk's trial revealed he had been making pig and elephant noises for nine years, every time she passed his house to meet her children at a school bus stop.

In September he stepped up his harassment campaign by playing the Old MacDonald tape on a boom box.

"At the point where the tape was making the pig sounds he would keep rewinding it and playing it back," the prosecutor said.

"She is very embarrassed by this. He did it in front of their children. It even got to the point where his own child would do it when Barzyk wasn't around."

Judge Lawrence F. Clark Jr. said Barzyk was trying to terrorize the woman and sentenced him to the policy for 30 days.

Outraged attorney Gary Lysaght labeled the sentence "manifestly excessive" and filed an appeal in behalf of Barzyk.

"That's like sentencing someone to eight months on a first-time drunk driving charge," Lysaght said.

Barzyk is out on bail pending the appeal of the sentence.

My mom wanted a baby so I had one for her!

I GAVE BIRTH TO MY OWN SISTER!

BEAUTIFUL baby Chanelle-Ashley is my sister, says Vicky-Michelle Thompson, who gave her child to her mother as a gift.

By KELLY FRANCIS
Weekly World News

Pretty teenager Vicky-Michelle Thompson had a baby — so she could give it to her mom as a present!

For delighted Bonita Davies, 42, it was the only way to realize the dream of starting a family with her new husband, Ben. For Vicky-Michelle, it was a natural way to make her mother happy.

"I had that baby for my mom and at the same time produced myself a sweet," said Vicky, 17, after she gave birth to a healthy baby girl. "When I knew I was pregnant I told Mom and then we told Ben together. I didn't regret what I did in the least."

Bonita and Ben Davies were married in Fleetwood, England. The couple desperately wanted to start a family, but that proved impossible. Bonita suffered several miscarriages and even an operation to improve her chances of conceiving did not help her have the baby she wanted.

"Mom was really getting depressed," Vicky recalled. "She never smiled, she hardly ate.

"Then one night when we were sitting at home my mom turned around and asked me if I would have a baby for her. I agreed."

Vicky chose an acquaintance to be the father and did not inform him of her plans.

She conceived almost immediately and the pretty mom-to-be quit her modeling and drama career to await her child.

Then, after a normal pregnancy, she gave birth to beautiful Chanelle-Ashley, an 8-pound baby girl.

The child was officially listed as the baby of Bonita and Ben Davies. She has been in their care since she left the hospital.

"I would never have dreamed of having a baby at the age of 17," said proud Vicky. "I would have waited much longer before

Killer drives 2,400 miles with dead lover beside him!

NEW YORK CITY — Blase boyfriend Angel Rivera stabbed his live-in lover to death in Kansas, cops said, and then drove 2,400 miles to New York — with her bloody corpse propped up beside him.

"He leaned her back in the reclining car seat and covered her chest with a jacket so it would look like she was asleep," said Police Capt. John Dillon. "Driving 65 m.p.h. on an interstate, no one is going to question that this woman is sleeping. She's sitting there with her eyes closed."

Rivera, 35, is accused of stabbing Trudy Poley, 38, six times during a violent argument in her parked car in Lawrence, Kan., 22 miles east of Topeka on April 26.

Police said Rivera, an unemployed cook, first drove to Denver before heading east to New York City where his two sisters live.

Rivera arrived at his sisters' home in East Trenton April 28. Later that evening, they drove him to a restaurant for dinner to celebrate his homecoming.

"During dinner one of his sisters asked Rivera, 'Where's Trudy?'" Capt. Dillon said. "Rivera replied, 'She's in the car.'"

One horrified sister drove the dead woman's Mazda with her body in it to the 46th Precinct. The other sister followed in her car with Rivera, who surrendered to police.

Rivera may be tried in New York or returned to Kansas for prosecution.

Fetch-happy mutt swipes 149 newspapers!

D.CK and Anna Stephens got the shock of their lives when they found Spike's pile of newspapers

By RICK TRACY / Weekly World News

Dog owner Dick Stephens told his pet Rottweiler to go fetch the morning paper — and the confused canine came back with 149 of them.

The pissed up mutt scoured the neighborhood grabbing every newspaper he could clamp his teeth on. He even snatched one right out of a woman's hand!

"I couldn't believe Spike would fetch everyone's paper," red-faced Stephens told a reporter for the weekly paper near Tampa, Fla. "Some of my neighbors were ready to lynch me when they found out."

Stunned Stephens said he opened the front door shortly after 6 a.m. and told Spike to go get the paper which was lying on the sidewalk near the front porch.

"He brought it right to me and I went inside to drink my coffee. Two hours later an angry woman in a bathrobe knocked on my front door.

"Piles of rolled up morning papers filled my front door and the steps. One of them belonged to the lady who knocked on my door."

She mentioned — in no uncertain terms — that Stephens should exercise a bit more control over his pilfering pooch.

Sneaky Spike apparently roamed the neighborhood swiping papers and bringing them back to his master. Stephens said his wife Anne retrieved as many of the papers as possible, but they didn't know who subscribed.

A spokesman for the news paper's circulation department said their phones "rang off the hook" for more than an hour as irate customers called about their missing morning papers.

"We had a truck out delivering papers to those customers when we ran into Stephens and his wife," said the spokesman.

"They told us what had happened."

NEW 3-POINT PLAN TO CHASE AWAY THE BLUES!

You can beat the blues with the effective new "Triple A" plan devised by a leading psychologist!

"Depression, a more formal term for what most of us call 'the blues' is rampant — almost epidemic," reveals Dr. Gary Emery.

"And the blues just lead to more blues by making their victim so negative that he can't act . . . which depresses him more.

"It is, in short, a vicious merry-go-round — but the Triple A plan is a way to shut off the motor," says the expert.

To show how the plan works, Dr. Emery offered this example:

You must prepare a special dinner for your husband's boss. (It must be perfect. But despite the fact that you've cooked it successfully many times, you're certain it will fail tonight — and damage your husband's position with his company. That frantic thought gets you depressed.

But you can defeat that depression with the three simple keys of the Triple A plan: Awareness, Answers and Action.

DEPRESSION is a formal term for the blues.

AWARENESS: Finding out what makes you blue

"All of us have what are called 'automatic thoughts' going on all day long," says Dr. Emery. "If they are negative thoughts, they're the basis for the blues."

Write down all of these thoughts and examine them. Ask yourself, "What is making me feel bad? What am I thinking about? What am I afraid of? Why do I feel so blue?"

ANSWERS: Put your fears to rest

The respected psychologist says, "Ask yourself, 'Is there any evidence to support my conclusion that the boss won't like my dinner?' 'Is there any reason to believe that my actions could jeopardize my husband's job?'

"And even if he hates your cooking — and you — there is no reason to think that would affect your husband's job."

Now look at the situation as if the worst has happened — and say "So what?" to each step.

"So what if the boss doesn't like me? My husband is a fine worker. Even if he was fired, he'd find an even better job."

ACTION: Do something positive

Now that you're recognized all your negative thoughts and replaced them with new positive thoughts, take action. Go ahead, put all your effort into making dinner, said Dr. Emery.

"The Triple A plan will turn your blues into the rosy red of happiness."

MY A[illegible] By ED ANGER

Ed's seeing red!

LET'S MAKE CHEESEBURGERS OUT OF ENDANGERED ANIMALS!

I'm madder than a senator with an exploding cigar that nitwit bureaucrats in Washington are still blowing our hard-earned tax dollars on stupid projects that egghead scientists and nutty professors think up!

Hillary is doing okay as President — for the next part. But when some bleeding idiot can get kicked from the U.S. government to find out if Americans and Mexican leopard frogs are sexually compatible, she ought to have her head examined and the taxpayers involved in shelling out stupid [illegible]

Let's face it, you and I work too damn hard for our money to spend it on such things as:

$ 48,337 to study prehistoric water rolls migrations from Australia to the Antarctic. (What FOOL thought this up?)

$ 282,707 for an eight-year study of the sex life of Mongolian aerial rodents. (That translates to animal pornography.)

$ 384,114 to study cow pops caused by landslides in the Puerto Rican rain forest affect hummingbirds. (You gotta be kidding!)

$ 10,000 to pay unemployed sex, life of the Caribbean bluehead wrasse fish. (Well, you can't even catch 'em!)

$ 3,000 to a New York artist to an amount equal to her weight shoving hands with garbage over while being filmed. (What?)

$ 120,000 to study how 1/3 billions of "endangered" beetles color. (That makes me see red!)

$ 300,000 for a researchers to develop telephone [illegible]

We can feed a lot of hungry people & cut government spending at the same time!

"That's the dumbest damn thing I've heard of since women's lib."

And here's what set the gasket on my head as hot as a stove burner:

$ 48,337 to pay for a fact study of the sex life of the Communist Party. (This little budget item should make TAXPAYERS see red.)

When these morons in the federal bureaucracy spend my money to help the endangered species, I say [illegible] like it or not, we're the endangered species. I'm getting mad as hell and I want it to stop.

Now, I'm not a hunter. I don't even know the ugly, smelly birds existed until some weepy-hearted fish-hugger came on the tube blubbering over the stupid things.

So, old Pip, we're going to have a spot of sleep over whether the fuel mandatee has brought the farm or not. In fact, they ought to sell mandatee buttons.

And I sure as hell don't want my tax money wasted in poking into the sex life of dumb wrasse fish. Let 'em end up in cat food or the frying pan where they belong.

Our tax bucks ought to go for helicopters and state of the art combat boots and helmets for the brave boys in real armed forces — not tarpon wars on some truculent professor's whim.

DIZZINESS: What it means and what to do about it

Here's everything you need to know about dizziness — a puzzling ailment that afflicts millions of Americans.

Doctors tell us there are four kinds of dizziness:

LOSS OF BALANCE — This can indicate a problem with the central nervous system caused by a tumor, head injury or nerve disease.

LIGHT-HEADEDNESS — When you feel a little dizzy but don't actually lose your balance, you may just be having an anxiety attack.

PASSING OUT — Dizzy fainting spells may be caused by blood vessel blockages that deprive the brain of oxygen. This could be a warning sign of an impending stroke or heart problem.

VERTIGO — This is that crazy spinning sensation that usually signals an inner ear disorder. Vertigo can be caused by certain medication as well as low blood sugar.

"Most of the dizziness seen by the average physician originates in the inner ear, rather than from something terrible like a brain tumor, which most people think of first," said Dr. Wallace Rubin. "And in most cases it can be treated fairly easily."

Vertigo can be caused by an inner ear infection or injury. But it can also come from a baffling affliction known as Meniere's disease, which results in too much fluid in the ear.

Folks with Meniere's disease suffer from dizziness, ringing and sometimes pressure in the ears, fluctuating hearing loss and sometimes even nausea and vomiting.

"The dizziness is recurrent, for some people once a week and for others three times a year," said Dr. Rubin.

Dr. Robert Baldwin said that while dizziness usually isn't caused by a nervous problem, it can sometimes provide a valuable warning that something is wrong.

Experts recommend that if you have recurring attacks of dizziness, you should see a doctor.

Be especially watchful of balance problems and weakness in the hand or arm because it could indicate heart problems.

Your doctor can treat your dizziness with a variety of drugs.

How Sir Francis Drake used dried urine to defeat the Spanish

English admiral Sir Francis Drake got a wee bit more oomph from his cannonballs by adding dried urine with his gunpowder!

The recipe was recently discovered by surprised historians who reckon the concoction gave Drake at least 20 yards more range than his enemies on the high seas. And they figure that little advantage helped Drake defeat the Spanish Armada six years ago. The urine was boiled until it crystallized, then added to the powder.

An intellectual is somebody who can bore you and make you feel guilty about it.

WOMAN COMMITS SUICIDE — IN HER DISHWASHER!

CAPE TOWN, South Africa — Tiny Trish Williamson hit on a unique way to commit suicide — she crawled inside a dishwasher and scalded herself to death!

"The machine came on automatically when she shut the door and the water was so hot she looked like a boiled chicken by the time we got her out," said Phil Richards of the Cape Town Police Department.

"She was literally scalded to death.

"But even if the water had not been cold, she certainly would have drowned."

By BRITTANY CHAPMAN
Weekly World News

People who knew the 4-foot-8, 82-pound woman said she rarely spoke to anyone and never smiled. She recently lost her job as a librarian and was clearly depressed, Officer Richards said.

"The dishwasher was a standard front-loading model, so once she pulled out the racks there was more than enough room for her to get inside," continued the cop. "She set the dials before she got in, so it turned on automatically when she shut the door."

A neighbor worried that Miss Williamson's apartment door was open and went in to see if the woman was okay.

When the neighbor couldn't find her, she got worried and called police. Officers said the dishwasher was on the rinse cycle when they opened the door and found Miss Williamson dead.

"It's the weirdest case of suicide I've ever seen," said Officer Richards.

BABYSITTERS DISAPPEAR!

The IRS has discovered that millions of cheating Americans report phony dependents for child care they never used.

A few years back, the agency began requiring taxpayers who take dependent-care credits to give the name, address and Social Security number of the sitter or daycare center they paid.

When tax time rolled around, 2.4 million babysitters "vanished into thin air" as claims dropped 10 percent.

College boots son after dad sends him test answers — by radio!

AVIGNON, France — Visiting American student Chuck Tremont was booted out of college and told not to come back after security men caught his father giving him test answers over a shortwave radio setup!

"Chuck was going to flunk out anyway so we had nothing to lose," the young man's father Jason told French newsmen.

"I know it wasn't right, but saw it, there was no other way."

The bizarre scheme came to light when security officers saw a black van with a mast outside the university. They grabbed the rear doors and heard Jason Tremont, 54, whisper "78.945 — the answer is 78.999" into a microphone.

Suspecting he was helping somebody cheat on a test, officers barricaded the room by mass search of the main departments and found his own. The younger Tremont refused to comment.

But a university press official said, "We do not condone cheating in any form.

Bingo accident gives granny nonstop orgasms, says lawsuit

MILWAUKEE, Wis. — A 73-year-old woman who says she started having nonstop orgasms after a mishap in a bingo parlor sued the place for big bucks — but she won't be getting a penny!

A judge has thrown out the lawsuit filed by Mary Verder who claimed she went sexually haywire after an electronic bingo board fell on her.

The bingo-playing grandmother said after being bonked on the head by the 300-pound board at St. Florian Catholic Church she began having spontaneous, multiple orgasms — and even started being turned on by women.

Mrs. Verder says when the orgasms started she felt too ashamed to mention the problem to her doctor. Now she claims her medical bills have reached a staggering $250,000.

But Judge Patrick Madden tossed the landmark case out when Mrs. Verder refused to undergo a psychological exam he'd ordered. And now she's madder than ever.

A lawyer for the church said all Mrs. Verder had was a bump on the head and a bruised arm — and that there is no medical evidence that these injuries could cause a person to become gay or have uncontrollable orgasms.

SAVAGES BAG HELICOPTER

TRIBAL ELDER Chief Apapa attacked the whirlybird — and lost his head!

HELICOPTER is being held hostage until its owners cough up $1000!

. . . after tail rotor slices off tribal elder's head!

By LISA MOORE

Jungle savages seized a helicopter and are holding it for ransom after the slashing blades of its tail rotor sliced off a tribal elder's head!

Even more amazing, the natives think the chopper is a gigantic bird and are actually offering it food in a bid to keep it alive.

It's been a nightmare for pilots and crew in the eight days since the savages grabbed the aircraft, destroying the airstrip in a remote area of Upper Zaire.

"The savages have had very little experience of modern technology and are convinced that the helicopter is a huge, trained bird," he explained.

They are demanding a king's ransom from the charter airline that owns it.

And they've threatened to kill the chopper if they don't get the ransom before the month is out.

The bizarre drama unfolded after the chopper flown by pilot John Barr developed engine problems forcing him to land near the village.

When the chopper touched down, 36-year-old Chief Apapa raised his spear and ran towards it. The rotor blades sliced off his head — but no one noticed.

Pilot Barr was unharmed, but nobody else was killed because the blades had stopped whirling, said Glenn.

They took the pilot prisoner but agreed to release him after a representative of the charter service arrived at the village.

"They are continuing to hold the helicopter hostage, however, until the charter service pays them the equivalent of 10,000 U.S. dollars in ransom.

They're also sharing bowls of food and water with the aircraft because they really do think the helicopter is alive and respect it so much.

Spokesmen for Zaire Air Charter refuse to discuss the pilot's demands but released a pregnant statement that said: "We are continuing to negotiate.

We don't even want our helicopter back.

They think captured chopper's a huge bird — & are even trying to feed it!

Serena, who'll win the presidential election in November?

Dear Serena: This upcoming presidential election really [illegible] me worried. If the [illegible] ends in the year 2000 like everyone says it's going to, then this could be the last President we ever have — so I want him to be a good one.

I haven't decided who to vote for — I feel sorry for Clinton because of all the trouble he gets in but I feel sorry for Dole, too, because he has never been President and has that hurt arm. But to tell you the truth, I know my one vote probably won't decide the election, so I want to be sure I vote for the winner. Please tell me who's going to win, Serena, so I can support the right guy. — Undecided in Marietta

Dear Undecided: Don't think for a second that your vote doesn't make a difference. Many of your friends and co-workers respect your opinion and will let it influence how they cast their vote. In fact, your state will be very important and close to contested when it comes to deciding the election. To answer your question, I will tell you that President Clinton is headed for another victory. But to win he'll have to pull a lot of crazy stunts that are going to leave even his biggest supporters shaking their heads in disbelief.

Sneaky parents flushed all my dope down the toilet!

BRAD in Stanley

Dear Dotti: My parents are the sneakiest people in the world. I'm 14. And as soon as I leave the house to mess around with my friends, they sneak in my room and turn it upside down. They're just looking for anything they can find to get me in trouble. Just yesterday they found a couple of bags of marijuana and flushed them down the toilet! That dope cost a lot of money, and one of the bags wasn't even mine. When I yelled at them about it they got all upset, my mother even started crying. I don't think my room is any of their business, and I think they were wrong to mess with my drugs. They read your column. Will you tell them to get off my case for good? — Brad in Stanley

Dear Brad: I agree with you 110 percent. Your parents were idiots to flush your marijuana down the toilet — they should have called the cops instead!

Should I sleep with my teacher to pass class?

Dear Dotti: I didn't graduate from high school this spring because I flunked math. I'm taking classes in summer school but, unfortunately, I'm not doing any better than I did during the regular school year. I'm an 18-year-old woman and I'm beginning to think I should use my feminine charms to get a good grade. My teacher is just 25 and he's single. Banana cream pies are MUCH better than sex!

Dear Dotti: I've got a tip for single women who have sexual needs and desires but don't have a man around the house. I'm a 49-year old divorcee, and when I feel a need for sex, I sprint down to the kitchen and make a banana cream pie. I always use the freshest ingredients. First I whip up a dough for the crust. Next I take a thick, long rope and flatten it out with a rolling pin. But my favorite part is preparing a batch of thick, warm scrumptious vanilla pudding to fill the crust. I pour the whole mixture into my long extruder — then I squirt it in. To finish up, I slather on whipped cream or top. Finally, I make intricate curlicues and designs in the topping with my lips and tongue. When I finish, I'm exhausted. He ate it all and I loved every minute of it. Unfortunately he got some of the paper stuck in his throat and almost choked to death. He flipped out that somebody put paper in it and he blames the restaurant. What should I do? — Bobby in Petersburg

HOW YOU CAN CURE ILLNESS WITH THE POWER OF PRAYER!

NATURAL HEALING: Dr. Herbert Benson shares the secrets of prayer with Weekly World News readers.

By MICHAEL FORSYTH / Weekly World News

You can beat a wide array of medical problems ranging from high blood pressure to infertility — with faith and prayer, according to a top Harvard expert.

"Your thoughts can actually induce physiological changes," declares Herbert Benson, M.D., author of the exciting new book Timeless Healing. The Power and Biology of Belief. "Beliefs can be a major source of illness and a major force in treatment."

Dr Benson, an associate professor [illegible] Medicine at Harvard Medical School and founder of the Mind/Body Medical Institute, notes that faith in God's healing hand can literally make the difference between life and death:

"In 1968, Dr Thomas E. Oxman of Dartmouth Medical School studied heart disease patients over the age of 55 who'd had open heart surgery.

"Those who believed in God and received solace and comfort from their religious beliefs were three times more likely to survive than those who did not."

He also points out that studies show that in many illnesses — including angina, bronchial asthma, herpes simplex and certain ulcers — old treatments that have recently been shown to have no medical value actually succeeded 70 to 90 percent of the time just because the patients genuinely believed they worked.

Dr Benson theorizes that your mind holds onto memories of when your body was well and that along with medical treatment, positive beliefs can restore us to a healthy state.

"Your body is designed to remember and restore health and well being," says the expert, who calls this effect "remembered wellness."

The Harvard physician has developed a technique for achieving a state of relaxation that frees the mind of stress, which can interfere with this natural healing process.

While this relaxation response can sometimes be achieved through meditation, the vast majority of patients prefer to use prayer.

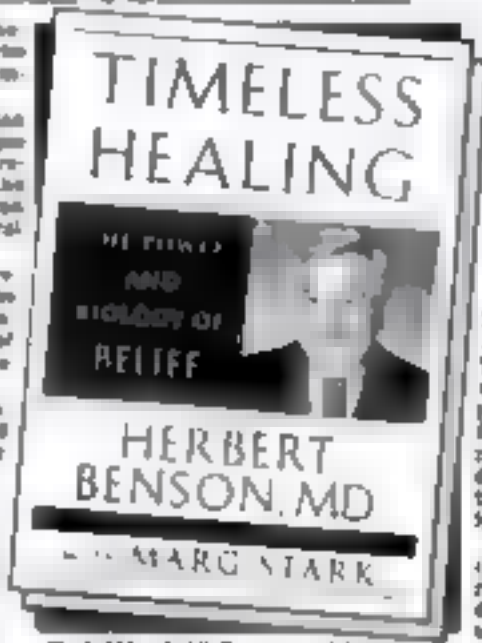
"People using this technique achieve a lowered heart rate, breathing rate and metabolic rate," reveals Dr Benson.

And he says the long-term results among patients who've used the approach have been remarkable.

℞ Hypertension patients experienced significant decreases in blood pressure and needed fewer or no medications.

℞ Patients with chronic pain felt reduced discomfort and required medical care 36 percent less often.

℞ Those suffering from insomnia who couldn't fall asleep easily were cured of their insomnia and enjoyed peaceful nights.



TIMELESS HEALING. A powerful book on how prayer can cure you naturally.

℞ A striking 34 percent of women with unexplained infertility became pregnant within six months.

℞ Women suffering from PMS enjoyed a 50 percent decrease in severity of their symptoms.

℞ People suffering from cardiac arrhythmias had fewer problems with their heartbeats.

℞ Migraine and cluster headache sufferers reported fewer and less severe headaches.

℞ Patients with cancer and AIDS experienced decreased symptoms.

Other conditions also affected by faith and belief, according to Dr. Benson: Fatigue, dizziness, impotence, cough, constipation, congestive heart failure, backaches, nausea during pregnancy, rheumatoid arthritis, postpartum swelling, diabetes mellitus, degeneration of heart muscle and skin reactions to poisonous plants.

Dr Benson warns that negative beliefs can [illegible] just as powerful an effect on [illegible] health as positive beliefs. He calls this effect the "nocebo effect" — because it is the opposite of the beneficial placebo effect. Extreme examples of the nocebo effect include voodoo deaths, caused simply because victims believe a witch doctor's curse has the power to hurt them.

"People who dwell on worst-case scenarios, who exaggerate risks or who project doubt and unclear worry keep the nocebo effect busy in their physiology," says the expert.

The Harvard professor believes that if people took advantage of faith and prayer — instead of relying exclusively on drugs and surgery — our nation could reduce expenditure on medical care by a huge amount. "I estimate that with greater emphasis on this approach we can cut down doctor visits 27.5 percent," says Dr Benson. "The savings to our society could be at least $43 billion a year."

- Chronic pain

BATTLE BAD HEALTH WITH THESE PROVEN WORDS OF PRAYER!

Below is Dr. Benson's proven technique for using prayer to battle illness and maintain health. Begin by using steps 1 through 8 to achieve the relaxation response.

STEP 1. Pick a basic word or phrase from your own faith. Here are three examples from various religions.

PROTESTANT: "Our Father who art in Heaven."

CATHOLIC: "Hail Mary, full of grace," or "Lord Jesus Christ, have mercy on me."

JEWISH: "Shma Yisroel."

"Shalom."

MUSLIM: "Allah."

STEP 2. Sit quietly in a comfortable position.

STEP 3. Close your eyes.

STEP 4. Relax your muscles.

STEP 5. Breathe slowly and naturally and as you do, repeat your basic phrase silently to yourself.

STEP 6. Don't worry about how well you're doing. When distracting thoughts come to mind, quickly put them out of your mind.

STEP 7. Continue for 10 to 20 minutes.

STEP 8. Sit quietly for a moment.

Remember, prayer is another name for the brain's power to bring forth remembered wellness," says Dr Benson.

Now focus on a positive image or affirmation behind. You can picture yourself healthy, or if you're taking medicine, picture it working. Or you can repeat a positive phrase such as "I believe I am well" or "I am becoming healthy and strong."

Or you can simply visualize a powerful image such as a mountain stream.

"Do this for about 10 minutes," suggest Dr. Benson.

THE 6 WAYS TO BEAT LONELINESS!

By JANE SAWYER / Weekly World News

You can be surrounded by friends and family and still feel lonely, experts say — but you can beat loneliness by following a few simple guidelines.

"What's important is not the quantity of people you know but the quality of your relationships with a select few," said psychologist Dr. Jerry Greenwald.

"It's not unusual to find someone who's married, has children and many relatives, who meets people easily and belongs to many clubs and organizations, and is still lonely."

Dr. Greenwald, who has led encounter groups throughout the country, offered these tips for overcoming loneliness:

● Don't try too hard to impress people. "Loneliness often stems from a fear that if people knew you the way you are, they'd have nothing to do with you. Stop hiding your flaws and shortcomings. They are part of being human."

● Be less critical of others. "A critical attitude chases people away," the psychologist said. "Make an effort to overlook other people's faults and seek out their virtues instead."

● Don't try to hide behind "safe" impersonal conversation. "Intimacy is an antidote to loneliness, and intimacy doesn't develop through conversations about nuclear physics or the stock market," Dr. Greenwald said.

And fellow human relations expert Dr. Ruth Greenwald suggested:

● Develop intimate relationships with more than one person. "It's a big mistake to count on your spouse or one close friend to satisfy your needs for intimacy. Expand your social contacts."

● Don't expect to develop intimacies overnight. "People will shy away from you if you dump all your emotional burdens on them in your first meeting," Dr. Greenwald said.

● Risk occasional rejection. "Don't be discouraged if your overtures are ignored or rejected," she said. "The important thing is to keep trying."

Weekly World News exclusive: The WORLD'S BIGGEST CROSSWORD!

You can trick yourself into feeling great — and even losing weight!

LOOK & FEEL TERRIFIC by implanting your mind with soothing get-well signals to the body.

You can shed extra pounds, make inexpensive food and cheap wine taste extra special and even make a sick person well — by using a medical principle known as the "placebo effect," say medical experts.

By LOU MARTIN
Weekly World News

When used correctly, the placebo effect tricks the mind into influencing the body.

Doctors have been doing it for years. Sometimes they'll give a patient a harmless substance and call it "medicine" — and the patient will suddenly get better.

The patient believes the medicine is making him better — but really it was just his mind being tricked into sending "get well" signals to the body.

Here's how you can use a placebo effect for yourself:

● You can lose weight by shining a green light on food so that it appears unattractive to eat.

● You can also shed pounds by tricking your eyes into believing you're eating more than you are, Dr. Nick Pasher said.

"We eat what looks like the amount we want," he said. "So select low-calorie foods that give you the illusion that you're eating more. Salads are a good example. Lettuce takes up a lot of space but has very few calories. Fruits and vegetables also are good."

● Make inexpensive meals taste better by serving them as if they were gourmet fare.

Throwing a hamburger on a paper plate won't stir up much enthusiasm.

But if you put it on a fancy plate and serve it with your finest silverware, the mind will make the food taste better. You can even wash inexpensive wine, too. Put it in beautiful glasses and serve it by candlelight and it'll taste much better.

"Restaurants have used these tricks for years and there's no reason not to use them at home. In effect, what happens is that the pleasure we've taken from our surrounding enhances our sense of taste."

● The most common use of the placebo effect is when children complain of tummy aches.

Often all parents have to do is tell the child they will run over it with a truck and make it better — and when they do the child decides he's not feeling so bad after all!

Teach me to be right instead of wrong, and help me to live with others when I am right.

Gal traps rapist in Murphy bed!

Victim pins attacker to the wall with her mattress!

By RICHARD KALSTON

Quick-thinking Krystal Somero single-handedly nabbed a knife-wielding rapist — by trapping him in her swing-down Murphy bed!

When the wide-eyed pervert forced his way into her small studio apartment, the gutsy 5-foot, 1-inch secretary kept her cool.

And when the fiend wrestled her down onto her bed, he was totally unaware that he had sealed his own fate.

But Krystal wasn't about to give in without a fight. She rolled off the bed and sprung the trap that held the brute as firmly as a fly in a web.

"At first, I was terrified," the 27-year-old heroine later told a reporter in Caracas, Venezuela.

"When I saw his knife, I felt I was going to [illegible] dead soon.

"But I thought it [illegible] I might [illegible] myself out even if I knew I couldn't just give up. I realized at once that this time, he was with me without a fight.

"In an apartment as small as mine, a Murphy bed is a godsend because it allows you to [illegible] the sofa and gets hidden away in the wall. And it's a spring-operated bed, so it doesn't take much effort to close it.

"So when that guy pulled me onto the bed, I knew it was my only chance to save myself. I jumped off, grabbed the foot of the bed and flipped it up as hard as I could.

"The bed slammed up with a bang, and I heard a loud thump when the guy hit the wall behind the bed.

"The opening in the wall was a [illegible] and [illegible] mattress [illegible]

[illegible] looking out of the top and [illegible] down on the floor. Since I weighed [illegible] there was no way the guy could get out.

Roberto, who said she took about a [illegible] realized at the end of her downstairs neighbor came in to investigate.

"She's a high-school teacher and she was pretty angry about the noise," Krystal said. "When I told her that I had a rapist trapped in my bed, she called the police on me.

"I'll never forget the way [illegible] face when the police pulled [illegible] out. I could see in it [illegible] knew he got more than he bargained for when he attempted to [illegible] me."

9 things you should know about the common cold

The cold is the most common illness in the world, say top experts, and here are answers to the most-asked questions about this ailment.

By JENNIFER BROOKES
Weekly World News

1 What is the common cold?

It's a viral infection — and more than 100 different viruses can cause it. These viruses attack the linings of the upper respiratory tract: the nose, throat, nasal passages and sinuses, and cause those symptoms we all know so well.

2 Why do some people seem to escape colds?

The way our bodies resist these viral infections varies from one person to another.

Researchers have taken groups of individuals and infected them with a cold virus to precisely the same quantity and at exactly the same time. Yet, amazingly, while some of these volunteers developed the classic bad cold, others didn't even realize they had an infection.

3 How contagious is the cold?

Some people are more susceptible than others. Colds are quite contagious to the susceptible person.

Studies have shown that when your cold symptoms are at their worst, you are most infectious to other people. When your symptoms are mild or improving, you are generally not infectious.

4 Why can't we prevent colds?

Developing a vaccine to prevent colds is unlikely because we'd have to have a different vaccine for each individual virus responsible.

5 Can vitamin supplements prevent colds?

Although there have been some studies which suggest Vitamin C is protective, most research has failed to show a connection.

6 Why do some people cough a lot when they get a cold?

The location of the infection will often determine whether a person is going to suffer a hacking cough. If a person has most of his cold virus infections in the throat, he's going to cough a lot more than someone whose infections is mainly in the nose and sinuses.

7 Will I have to suffer a lot of colds as I get older?

Our immunity to colds appears to strengthen as we get older.

8 Can a cold deteriorate into something worse?

It sure can. Colds can result in pneumonia, sinus and middle ear infections that can lead to deafness. When you get a cold don't ignore it.

9 What's the best treatment for a cold?

Decongestants are very useful. Not only do they make you feel more comfortable, they can also help prevent complications. Aspirin and similar compounds can be used to reduce fever and relieve aches and pains. Get plenty of rest and drink as much fluids as you can.

A COLD is a viral infection that can affect the linings of the upper respiratory tract.

GOOD NEWS: Trained prison dogs are America's hottest new pets!

By ALEX MORGAN / Weekly World News

TALLADEGA, Ala. — Thousands of pet lovers across the United States are adopting dogs that were born and raised on prison yards — but now they're discovering the hounds won't let them leave their houses!

But the bad news is: They're holding their owners prisoners!

"We love our dog, Corky, and we're happy we took him away from that prison yard," said Jean Cantrell. "But we have a serious problem if he sees any of us trying to walk out the front door.

"We've become prisoners in our own home. We have to outsmart our dog if we want to go somewhere — and I tell you, that isn't easy to do."

The dogs generally are ones who lived on prison grounds while training to become police dogs, such as drug-sniffers.

When the dogs get old or don't work out, they are put up for adoption.

"When we saw an ad in the paper about some prison dogs needing homes, we thought it would be great to have one," said Mrs. Cantrell. "But obviously the natural, ingrained reaction for these dogs is to try to stop anyone who they see trying to leave."

The Cantrells' problem is similar to one reported by hundreds of families who have adopted prison dogs in nearly every state. Many families have returned the dogs — but others, like the Cantrells, learn to live with the unusual pets.

Mrs. Cantrell said Corky sometimes seems to be more insistent about letting her husband slip out.

"I think Corky sees him as the master of the house, so sometimes he'll let him be free to go," she said. "But if I or any of the kids try to leave alone, we have to catch Corky either asleep or in another part of the house.

"We even have a picture of him trying to keep my daughter from climbing over a fence in the backyard to chase a ball. Corky just went wild when she got near the fence," she said.

"It can be pretty comical at times, I guess."

Water bed destroys apartment building!

ESSEN, Germany — A pair of ne'er-do-wells who had a water bed delivered to their sixth floor apartment did not get much use out of it — because the thing weighed so much it fell through the floor and ultimately all the way down to the ground floor!

Incredibly, no one was injured but six rooms were totally destroyed when the 1,800 pound bed smashed through five floors moments after it was filled.

George Bush's life saved by pet plant!

The marijuana plant — also known as hemp — actually has a time-honored place in American history. Not only was it grown both by Presidents Washington and Jefferson, but the first draft of the Declaration of Independence was printed on paper made from hemp and our first flag is believed to have been made of hemp fabric!

Westward-bound pioneers covered their wagons with hemp canvas — and Mamie Abe Lincoln's wife came from a proud marijuana-raising family, according to the authors of the book, It's a Conspiracy.

The color orange can make you impotent, says new study!

By LILA SCHWARZ · Weekly World News

COPENHAGEN, Denmark — A shocking new study reveals that healthy men can develop problems of impotence — simply by looking at the color orange.

RESEARCHER Dr. Henrik Nordam.

Incredibly, researchers found that there is a gradual erosion of sexual potency that is directly related to frequency and duration of exposure to the color. Of 703 males studied, a startling 69 percent were vulnerable to the effects of the shade.

"At this time we can offer no explanation for the effects of orange on male virility, but preliminary research shows it affects other animals — mice, rabbits and dogs, for example — in addition to fish," said Dr. Henrik Nordam, who discovered the bizarre potency reducing powers of the color. "We have a theory that the body reacts in a specific way to reflected light off this color, but we do not at this point understand what is occurring."

Dr. Nordam and two colleagues were studying color blindness in adult males when they discovered what they call "orange-related impotence syndrome." They administered complete physicals to their subjects — who ranged in age from 21 to 67 — before, during and after their color research.

"We interviewed subjects about their health and as a matter of routine, asked them if they suffered from sexual dysfunction or impotence," the eye specialist revealed. "Initially only 1.5 percent of the subjects reported sexual problems.

"But by the time the color study was over 10 months later, that number had risen astronomically to 43.3 percent and we set out to determine why."

Eventually the experts discovered that it was exposure to the color orange that caused male virility to plummet. Further experiments showed that the impotence effect is triggered by all orange-colored objects, including

"Until we have an answer to these questions, I would advise any man who wishes to stay maximally potent to look away whenever he's confronted with the color orange."

Scientist discovers amazing

MAGNET POWER!

Put 'em under your pillow — and wake up FEELING GREAT!

You can live longer, healthier and happier, a top scientist says — by using the power of a simple magnet to heal and energize your body while you sleep.

By KIMBERLY SULLIVAN
World News

Just two six-inch-long magnets placed under your mattress each night can have astounding effects, according to Dr William Philpott.

The ordinary magnets can reverse aging, bolster the immune system and cure nearly every disease known to man.

"This is a whole new ar[illegible] in medicine," the well-known psychiatrist and researcher said. "You can control the electrical activity of the brain with magnets for great benefits without side effects. I have studied more than 3,000 patients and I know what I'm talking about."

DR. William Philpott found that magnets work miracles!

Research shows that sleeping regularly with two magnets under your mattress can:

- Cure heart disease and cancer
- Fight infections
- Remove body toxins
- Prevent respiratory problems
- Reverse aging
- Reduce anxiety and prevent depression
- Increase sex drive
- Boost energy
- Have more restful sleep
- Beat arthritis
- Reduce inflammations
- Eliminate pain
- Bolster the immune system and heal injuries

And it's so simple anyone can do it, the researcher says. All you have to do is get two bar magnets at least six inches long with the positive (north) and negative (north) poles clearly marked on them.

To use the magnets just place them under your mattress at the head of the bed about four inches above where your head rests when you sleep.

Turn the magnets so that the negative poles point toward the body. Space the magnets about 18 inches apart.

"All the organs and systems in the body are dependent on the constant presence and influence of magnetic energy," claims Dr Philpott, the author of several books on brain chemistry.

"By using the magnets regularly while you sleep, you can ensure that you feel well, look terrific and live a longer, healthier life."

IT'S IN TO LIVE IN SIN!

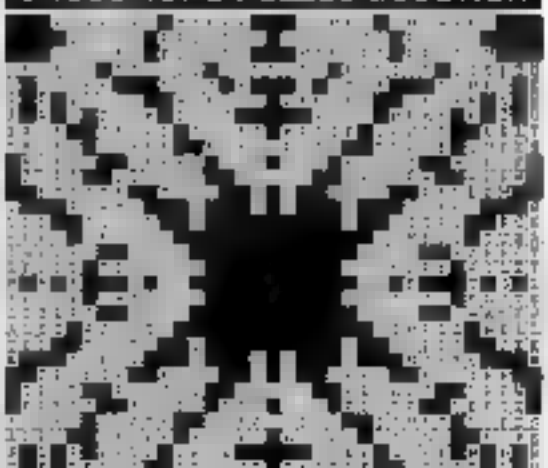
If things keep going they way they are now, marriage may be outmoded in the near future!

A new study shows that more women than ever prefer living with their men before sanctioning the relationship with wedlock.

And the report revealed a huge number of women say they would prefer to never get married at all.

And once a couple is living together the woman almost always decides whether they will get married.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE SOLUTION



Money secrets your

By ALEX WOLFE

WASHINGTON — You can literally "beat the bank" and get richer in the process with tips from America's leading financial experts.

All you have to do is learn a few closely guarded and highly profitable secrets that bankers use to siphon money out of your accounts and absolutely, positively do not want you to know.

And while you might think you aren't rich enough to be robbed by bankers, remember this: It is often the smallest of accounts that provide bankers with the most fertile ground for enriching themselves while you try to figure out where your money is going and do everything you can to stay out of the poorhouse.

"To succeed with your money you've got to change your banking habits," author Charles Givens says in his important book Financial Self-Defense, How to Win the Fight for Financial Freedom (Simon & Schuster, New York).

"You must develop strategies that will allow you to beat the bank instead of letting the bank beat you." Here, from Givens' book, is how

How to get into the booming stock market — with $50 or less!

Stop putting your money into savings accounts that pay low interest rates by investing as little as $50 a month in the stock market — and making it on the house!

There's how. Open an account with a broker. It's easy — a telephone call will do it. Invest your money in a major company like IBM, that has a long history of rising earnings and dividends.

Make sure the company you pick has a Dividend Reinvestment Plan (DRIP) that doesn't charge a commission. That way, you will save a commission on your initial stock purchase because you will be purchasing additional stock from the company itself through a reinvestment of dividends and future purchases with your $50 a month.

Just keep reinvesting dividends and adding your $50 a month — and watch your certificates grow!

The easy way to borrow money — anytime you want!

Contrary to the financial world as just about the smartest thing you can do to achieve your financial goals, including getting loans anytime you want.

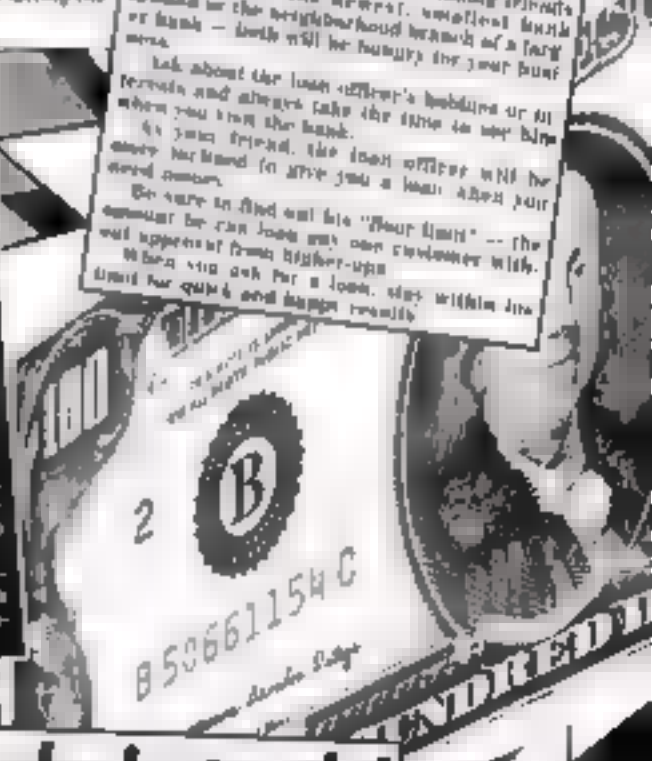
You'll have no easier time making friends if you choose the newest, smallest bank around or the neighborhood branch of a fancy Wall Street bank — both will be hungry for your business.

Ask about the loan officer's hobbies or interests and always take the time to say hello when you visit the bank.

As your friend, the loan officer will be happy to lend to give you a loan when your need arises.

Be sure to find out his "floor limit" — the amount he can loan you on your signature without approval from higher-ups.

When you ask for a loan, stay within his limit for quick and happy results.



Get cash for out-of-town checks instantly!

Open your checking account in a bank that won't put a "hold" on the checks you deposit — even out-of-town checks.

Your banker may decry that such an account is open to abuse by bad check writers. But your bank gets the money for the checks you deposit from the Federal Reserve within 24 hours.

In fact, your bank gets the money for the checks you deposit from the Federal Reserve within 24 hours. Then it can use the money actually gaining interest on it. But your banker is not on it, for free.

Find out if your bank holds checks ... or gain interest on it banker doesn't want you to know!

Never pay bounced check charges again!

Open a bank account with automatic overdraft privileges. That way, on those rare occasions when you have a check returned for insufficient funds, you won't get hit with a bad check fee of $20 to $30.

One of the best ways to ensure that you don't get hit with a bad check fee is to arrange to have any overdraft charged to a credit card such as Visa, MasterCard or American Express.

Why you should never use automatic teller machines

Don't use ATMs unless you absolutely have to. They're costly – and they keep you from getting to know your banker, who can help you get better terms on loans and other services.

How to get a great auto loan — with bad credit!

You can get a great auto loan even with bad credit by the simple act of shopping around, it's easy. The trick is to get yourself approved for a loan before you go shopping for a car. Check out banks, credit unions and other financial institutions to get the best rate. Remember, even with bad credit, your credit is good. Banks WANT to lend you money. It's how they stay in business.

If you're turned down, so what? There's a bank on every corner and most of them are just itching to give you the money you need. So don't settle for the first loan you get. Shop around for the best loan you can get — and the best loan is the one that carries the lowest rate of interest.

... plus 5 more money-saving tips to help you get ahead

Here are more bankers' secrets from other experts:

● Keep the minimum required balance in your checking account and the rest of your cash in a money market fund.

Don't put any more money in your checking account than what you need for immediate personal expenses. Banks pay interest on some checking accounts, but only if you maintain a minimum balance in the account, money that could be earning higher interest elsewhere.

Keep the bare minimum you need to cover bills and expenses in your checking account, and put the rest in a money market mutual fund, which can provide instant security and pays more interest.

If you have a large or unexpected expense, simply write a check on your mutual fund account to pay it.

● Never fall into the bank-provided automobile insurance trap. When you get a car loan from your bank, your contract states that you must carry insurance on the car at all times. If your insurance should lapse, even for a day, that clause also says that the bank will automatically provide insurance.

Incredibly, the cost of bank-provided insurance is as much as three times what a company pays. And because the bank provides you with the insurance automatically — without notification — you are increasing your risk to boot.

You probably won't even find out about it until you make the final payment on your loan and find out that you still owe the bank a wad of cash.

The bottom line: Make sure your own insurance is paid up and in effect at all times.

● Determine the true interest rate before signing a loan agreement. Because there are so many ways to figure interest, you must find out exactly what the rate is costing you. Have your banker explain in detail. Read your loan documents. Find out how much the loan will cost you in the future and make sure you're getting the best deal before you sign anything.

● It's a little known fact that the fees and interest rates banks charge are negotiable. To get lower fees and better rates, ask.

● Don't pay good money for "services" you don't need. For example, when you purchase a car with a loan from your bank don't buy the overpriced life and disability insurance offered by the loan officer.

Easy ways you can avoid common stomach ailments

By LOU MARTIN / Weekly World News

Nearly everyone suffers from some type of stomach problem at some time or another. But you can beat those aches and pains with these simple tips from experts:

GAS: To prevent gas, relax when you eat. Don't gulp food and liquids. Close your mouth when you chew your food — and chew well. Also, stay away from foods that can cause gas such as sniffles, melons, carbonated drinks, beans, cabbage, onions and broccoli.

HEARTBURN: "The acid backs up and attacks the walls of the esophagus," said gastroenterologist Dr Alan Schulman.

Antacids are a good remedy. He recommends Mylanta II and Maalox Therapeutic Concentrate or if you're on a restricted salt diet, Riopan. But if the problem persists see your doctor. One way to avoid heartburn is to sleep with your head elevated so gravity will keep the enzyme acid down in your stomach.

Don't bend over — it will squeeze your stomach. If you must pick something up, keep your back straight and bend at the knees. Don't wear tight belts or girdles that force food up your food pipe. Avoid coffee, chocolate, mint and alcohol since they create excess acid. Don't eat before bedtime.

HANGOVERS: with an upset stomach might indicate gastric inflammation of the [illegible]," said Dr Na[illegible], another respected gastroenterologist.

[illegible] aspirin painkiller [illegible] could make your stomach bleed. If you are dehydrated drink plenty of water or [illegible].

ULCERS: Experts say ulcers are erosions in the wall of the duodenum — part of the small intestine — or stomach caused by either too much acid secretion or a problem with the gastrointestinal lining.

Avoid milk and stay away from acidic foods like citrus, alcohol and caffeine.

CONSTIPATION: Chronic constipation can be caused by too much refined food.

For a quick natural way to relieve constipation, drink prune juice. Avoid laxatives.

You can also mix bran in to your food. For adults, two or three tablespoons a day are recommended. For kids, one or two tablespoons a day.

But check with your doctor first.

World's oldest surgeon fired — at 108

PERTH, Australia — The Australian Medical Board has revoked the license of the world's oldest practicing cancer surgeon — but the feisty 108-year-old doctor is fighting them tooth and nail!

By ANN VICTORIA
World Wide News

Dr Harlan Gaines, who started practicing in 1910 at the age of 30, has performed 18,863 successful operations during his exemplary career. But the board has ruled that his advanced age now makes him a danger to the health and safety of his patients.

Dr Gaines, however, says of performing surgery: There are thousands of alcoholic surgeons doing operations with horrible hangovers. Their hands shake far worse than mine. But nobody is trying to take their licenses.

"And my eyes are plenty good enough to see where the tumors are. I've had nearly 80 years of experience with this work and never lost a patient on my table. I don't deserve to be put out to pasture like an old racehorse. I still have a valuable contribution to make and I demand the right to make it."

The board has offered Dr Gaines a generous retirement fund but the elderly physician refuses to accept it. Instead he is using his own money to finance a lawsuit to get his license back.

Dr Carl Draper, spokesman for the board, says he sympathizes with Dr Gaines but the safety of the patients must come first.

"We're proud of this man and the fine work he's done over his 78 year career," said Dr. Draper.

"But it's really time for him to retire and leave those complex procedures to younger men."

... now he's fighting back!

'I don't deserve to be put out to pasture like an old racehorse'

It says the people who withdrawn from sports didn't tell the whole people were going to be angry.

Religious expert warns . . .

SATANISTS USING GUARDIAN DEMONS FOR PROTECTION

DARK POWERS by Peter Flenerman warns people to not give into guardian demons.

By TANYA BRODIE / Weekly World News

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — A noted religious expert says there are creatures more powerful than guardian angels: They're called guardian demons and thousands of folks are turning to Satanism in order to benefit from their protection!

Peter Flenerman, 55, author of Dark Powers, says his Bible research reveals that the fallen angel Lucifer has a cadre of demon helpers who watch over living individuals much as guardian angels do.

. . . and they're all going to Hell!

The guardian demons protect their "charges" from misfortune, accidents and illnesses, he says, and they're tough, protective and twice as good at their job as angels.

Tough-as-nails evil entities are twice as powerful as guardian angels!

"Unlike a guardian angel, the guardian demon doesn't face any moral problems when it comes to protecting his charge," explains Flenerman, who divides his time between Memphis and the Holy Land.

RELIGIOUS EXPERT Peter Flenerman.

"He can use any dirty trick in the book to accomplish his task. Unfortunately it seems the word is out, because more and more people are turning to Satan to guarantee themselves a long and lucky life.

"They've heard guardian demons are super effective and they want the very best in protection."

Flenerman says his research has turned up dozens of instances where guardian demons stepped in to protect men, women and children. To many of these cases the demons were visible to witnesses, who described them as terrifying to behold. But although the grisly creatures are frightening, Flenerman fears they may be attractive enough to many to lead millions of Christians astray. "They are scary, but because evil will overcome good nine times out of ten they're able to win converts," he says.

"People are selling their souls for a longer life, but they're forgetting that they'll have to go to Hell when they die.

"We have to educate folks to stick with their guardian angels so they can go to Heaven."

RUSSIAN COSMONAUTS IN SPACE

In a heart-stopping encounter in space, Russian cosmonauts flew side by side with extraterrestrials for four days, high-level Russian sources reveal!

The tall, large-eyed aliens even climbed out of their sphere-shaped spacecraft and floated untethered with no space suits or visible means of oxygen.

The startling details of the encounter were revealed at a top-secret meeting of about 200 Russian officials just last month.

Russian cosmonauts Vladimir Kovalyonok and Viktor Savinykh were nearing their end of their mission when they encountered a silver, perfectly round alien spaceship.

"The ship was only half the size of our 124-foot control module," said a Russian source who was at the briefing.

A respected Russian engineer who was also there said the unidentified spaceship entered the identical orbit of the Russian craft. Kovalyonok quickly pulled out a video camera to document the incredible occurrence.

During the first 24 hours, the object remained about 3,000 feet away, showing no signs of life.

"Then suddenly it moved in to less than 300 feet from our ship. The cosmonauts counted 24 windows — plus three large circular portholes," the source said. "And peering from the three portholes were three heads that looked human.

"Using binoculars, the cosmonauts could see that the aliens were tight-fitting hoods and had husky, strong eyebrows and firm, strong noses."

But most unusual was the size of the aliens' blue eyes — about twice the size of human eyes.

"Their skin was brown — like an East Indian — but

PARIS — A ritzy hotel company has filed suit against the family of suicide victim Albert Nouton, demanding $450,000 in damages caused when the despondent man slit his wrists and bled all over his hotel suite.

The Auberge Nano claims Nouton, 61, staggered through the three-room suite, dripping blood on the antique carpets, curtains and furniture, before he eventually collapsed and died in the bathroom.

their faces remained emotionless, giving them a robot-like look."

Eventually, the alien craft came within 100 feet of the Russian craft. On an impulse, one of the cosmonauts displayed a celestial map to the aliens.

"His heart skipped a beat when one of the aliens pulled out his own map," the engineer said. "The cosmonauts could see it through the window — and it had our solar system on it.

"One cosmonaut signaled thumbs-up. Without expression, the alien repeated the gesture."

Another Russian space expert who was at the briefing revealed the cosmonauts actually tried to communicate with the aliens, using a flashlight to send Morse code messages. But they got no response.

Finally one cosmonaut flashed some numbers in Morse code — and the aliens responded by using a [illegible] to exchange the figures.

Scientists studying the situation from Earth realized the figures they had exchanged were a complex series of mathematic formulas.

"Clearly, at least in math, we learned we speak the same language," said one excited scientist.

On the third day, the aliens grew braver and took several space walks. The cosmonauts were amazed that the emerging aliens — who appeared to be at least seven feet tall — were not wearing any space suits.

"They were not tethered as they floated in space, far away from their ship," the source said. "They had no discernible breathing apparatus."

After four days, the aliens finally left — and the Russians caught their departure on tape.

"The silver sphere began retreating into the distance, moving extremely slowly. The ship grew smaller and smaller and took nearly five hours to disappear from sight.

"It was as though the ship was saying a friendly cosmic farewell: 'So long, new friends.' "

At press time, a team of top American space officials had reportedly traveled to Russia to study the controversial tape of the aliens.
